Feather Boas, Collarettes.

There is no questioning the fact that Feather Boas and Collarettes occupy a very high niche in public favor just now. No wonder, for they are certainly charmingly pretty. Such an array of them is to be found nowhere else, and every one we show is of perfect black and lustre.

Entertainments.
HYPERION.
E. E. Rice's grand production of "1492" will be presented this and tomorrow nights in all its splendor. Theresa Vaughn, the queen of burlesque, will appear as the buoyant Infanta Joanna, with a budget of the newest songs, and among them one which is destined to become awfully popular, not because it is of her own composition, but it is so bright and catchy and is already sung and whistled by almost every boy in New York today. Charles Bigelow will be the royal treasurer and Mark Smith, the Daisy Queen of Spain, in imitation of Richard Harlow, a characterization in every way remarkable. The supporting company is excellent. Sale of seats now open. E. E. Rice's lavish production of "Excalibur, Jr." will be presented at the Hyperion for five nights, commencing on Monday next. The scenic effects and costumes will fully meet the requirements of the piece. An entirely novel libretto has been written by R. A. Barnett of "1492" fame, and the catchy music is the joint work of George L. Tracy and A. B. Sloane, with an occasional contribution from Mr. Rice. All the leading stars of Mr. E. E. Rice's various combinations will assist, viz: Fay Temple, Theresa Vaughn, Irene Perry, Marie Cahill, Charles A. Bigelow, Arthur Dunn, Charles T. Pusey, Richard Carle, Matthew Ott and Walter Jones, and a large and effective chorus under the direction of Mr. John J. Braham. There will be two matinees, Wednesday and Friday, which are given specially for the benefit of out of town patrons, when they will see the same performance in every detail, as that given in the evening. The sale of seats is now open.
